East Wichita Rotary Contributions

One of our favorite meetings of the year is when we introduce the charities who benefit from our contributions.

Wichita Children's Home.

Janet Pack said that the Street Outreach van picked up 29 homeless youths the last two weeks of May.

Kansas Food Bank. Brian Walker said the Food 4 Kids program serves 300 schools and 5000 kids. Each child receives food to ensure they're fed during the weekend.

American Red Cross. Bev Morlan said the organization helped over 100,000 people last year. After a family loses their home and possessions in a fire, "We are what happens next,"

Bev said.

Kansas Humane Society.

Kim Janzen said they've been in their new building for one year and cared for almost 19,000 animals.

Boys and Girls Club. Samantha Alexander and Lindsey Wasinger said the club provides food and activities for kids throughout the year, especially after school and during the day in the summer.

Dear Neighbor Ministries. Kit Lambertz said the organization serves the poor and underserved in Wichita.

Medical Services Bureau.

Brianna Guice said the bureau provided vision care for over 5000 last year. One child said he was happy to finally see his school work, even though he didn't want to do it.

Youthville. Pam Cornwell said Youthville served thousands of kids last year who have been abused or neglected.

More from our favorite organizations

Youth Entrepreneurs of Kansas. Jon Bachura said YEK plans to double its volunteers to mentor high school kids in their introduction to business.

Communities in Schools. Mandy Wilbert said

"Volunteerism is almost as important as money" for her group, which teaches kids how to budget their future finances.

East Wichita Rotary Foundation. Eric Fahnestock received from Bob Hughey

an update on his late father's scholarship fund, now at $23,000. Eric said he's organized a golf tournament, now full with 90 players, to raise money for a memorial for his father at Crestview Country Club.

Movie reviews: Love and Geeks

Hollywood's new leading man, Jonah Hill. C'mon, Brad Pitt has nothing on him!

My preferred movie choice last weekend was The A-Team, however, pity the fool who didn't see Letters to Juliet. Hollywood has found a formula for success: film the rolling hills of Italy, include the beautiful vineyards, visit the small, ancient towns where there appears to be no traffic and no hurry, where people always seem to be dining, enjoying the bread, and cutting the cheese. And include a love story between an American and an Italian.

Who hasn't wanted to be a rock star where you can live without consequences for a day or two or three? In Get Him to the Greek, Jonah Hill gets his first leading romantic role. You might remember him from similar raunchy comedies, Superbad and Knocked Up. Also, you might remember Russell Bland, who plays the rock star and was in a similar raunchy comedy, Forgetting Sarah Marshall. It should be no surprise that this is a raunchy comedy.

WORD DUH JOUR

Corrigendum
(noun)

[kawr'-ah-JEN-dahm]

An error to be corrected, usually an error in print

Think big thoughts but relish small pleasures

Prayer-Bob Hadley
Announcements-Britt Fulmer said Joanne Rogers is celebrating her 29th birthday today.

More from our guests today...incoming

President Noel Anderson introduced his boss, Bev Morlan, from the American Red Cross.

Mandy Wilbert, of Communities in Schools, said the kids receive a budget based on their GPA. With that in mind, how the heck did any of the East Wichita Rotarians survive in life?

Kim Janzen, of the Kansas Humane Society, said a one-legged dog is named "Captain Dan" after the character in the movie Forrest Gump.

It takes a long time to grow an old friend
